

MR. CLEVELAND has had a conference with Mr. Tilden.

It is set down by the knowing ones that Senator Bayard will be offered the place of Secretary of State.

CLEVELAND is being urged to give Daniel Manning, the great New York politician, the Treasury portfolio.

Persons desiring a faithful report of the Lone Star State would do well to read Dr. Coleman's letter in this issue.

The notorious Thomas Buford, slayer of Judge John M. Elliott, died last Thursday at the Anchorage Insane Asylum.

JUDGE W. B. NOE, of Calhoun, has declined to make the race for the Senate in the district composed of McLean and Davies counties.

The Messenger and Inquirer became brothers-in-law last week. We thought it was mighty strange they hadn't spat at each other any.

It is reported that Mr. Hendricks is not for Mr. McDonald's being made a member of the Cabinet, to the regret of the Indiana Democrats.

A PICTURE we saw lately of Senator Riddleberger strikingly resembled Tom Robertson. The resemblance was chiefly about the eyes—two wells of liquid blue (ruin), they looked, a quart deep.

ANOTHER conflagration horror took place last week at Philadelphia. The Blockley Insane Asylum caught fire and burned to the ground, and eighteen caged maniacs were slowly and horribly roasted to death.

EDITOR BARRETT always at work for his patrons has just gotten through distributing a large and valuable list of premiums to his subscribers. The list was unusually valuable and nothing but a big subscription or a big purse could afford such generosity.—Frankfort Capital.

The President-elect can find no better adviser in all this broad land than the wise old man of Grey-stone. In 1880 the Democratic party in national convention assembled slighted the old man; in 1884 it did him homage, and chose one of his lieutenants.

We hope every reader of this week's paper will not omit to peruse the verses in the Negro dialect that appear elsewhere on this page. Their pith, true imagination, humanity, and tones of eternal melody, we think, well nigh warrant the assumption that "the age of inspiration is not passed, that the Bible is not closed."

At a battle with the Arab rebels near the Duka Islands in the Nile, General Earle, of the English forces, met his death. He was highly esteemed, and regarded as one of the bravest, most brilliant and popular soldiers of the army. He was killed during a fierce charge at the head of the column.

JOHN D. WHITE, the wild cantankerous member from the Kentucky mountains, arose in the House the other day to make a personal explanation, and Speaker pro tem, Blackburn refused to hear him. Mr. White insisted so persistently on being heard that the Sergeant-at-Arms had to be directed to compel him to take his seat.

SENATOR MARONE's pet son, Butler, got on a drunk the other night, shot at him twice, wounding him once, and was finally pulled by the police and taken to the station-house where he gave $50 collateral for his appearance next morning. Next day in Police court he was allowed bail in the sum of $1,000 for his appearance when wanted.

THE House Committee on Foreign Affairs has decided to report that it is unbecoming the dignity of the House of Representatives to assume that American citizens had been in any way connected with the London dynamite crimes, where no charge had been made, and that the committee was unwilling to request any officer of the government to search for proof of guilt where there was no charge.

THE Louisville Commercial announces that the cause of the deficit in the State's treasury is the practice in various counties of the State, especially in the eastern part, of sending to the Auditor fraudulent idiot and witness claims. It is of no avail for the Auditor to refuse payment on the claims he deems not right; for, if he does, the courts will in the end order him to pay them. The Commercial says $2,000,000, have thus been stolen from the State.

Hurrah for Cundiff!

THE time is changed now. The complaint about the ill-health of seven hundred convicts at Frankfort is growing louder. The pro-convict labor sheets are exulting and taunting. Still, we don't want the striped jackets down here in our coal banks.

We don't see why it would not be good policy in the long run for the British Government to grant Ireland the separation she has so long and loudly demanded. She seems to be a burden rather than a benefit. With about ten years of home government, civil strife and dynamite in Erin, there wouldn't be a man left to tell the tale, except the man in the moon.

THERE is considerable feeling in England against Gladstone, the Prime Minister, on account of the Egyptian reverses. Jingoism, vigor and combativeness in the administration of foreign affairs, has always been popular with the English masses. Disraeli was a brilliant personification of this policy. Gladstone is opposed to it; he belongs to the Peace school, that Bright belongs to and Cobden affiliated with, and which is not in sympathy with war and annexation by force. However, we predict and hope that Gladstone will emerge from his present trouble safe and honored, as he is one of the greatest statesmen of the world.

MISS EVA MACKAY, daughter of John Mackay the Silver King of America, was married in Paris Thursday to Don Ferdinand Julien Colonna, an Italian prince. The ceremony was private. After the religious rite the bride's mother gave a grand reception, equalling the papers say, the most magnificent festivals of French history. Nearly every person of note and prominence in French society was present. The bride is highly educated and much thought of by her personal acquaintances. She is a good linguist, speaking several languages. Her father twenty-five years ago was a poor miner in Nevada; by indomitable pluck and energy he attained his gigantic affluence. The groom is descended from one of the proudest families of Italy, his nobility dates back almost to the time of Saladin. The couple will make a tour in this country.

THE report of the survey and examination of Green and Barren rivers by Capt. Post, United States Engineer, ordered to be made by Congress with a view of purchasing the Green and Barren river Navigation Company's franchise, was submitted to the House Friday, with a letter from President Smallhouse. Smallhouse shows that the company's lease has yet thirteen years to run, expiring on March 9, 1898. The yearly receipts of the rivers are $50,000, the yearly expenses, $12,000, leaving an annual profit of $38,000; and the company will relinquish all of its rights and privileges to the General Government for $400,000.

Captain Post makes no recommendation, except to suggest that in the event of purchase by the Government the State of Kentucky ought first to cede to the General Government all the rights and privileges which otherwise would revert to her at the expiration of the company's lease. The value of the interests along the rivers is referred to, and the opinion expressed that if the rivers are made free those interests will greatly increase in value.

It is too late for Congress to act on the proposal this session, but it will be an important subject before the Rivers and Harbors Committee of the next Congress. The people most interested in this matter should be ready to do their part also.

THE two houses of Congress met in joint session last Wednesday, counted the electoral vote and declared Cleveland and Hendricks elected respectively President and Vice-President of these United States. Messrs. Hoar and Pendleton of the Senate, and Messrs. Clay and Keifer of the House, acted as tellers on the occasion. There was enthusiastic applause when the announcement of the result was made.

It will be impossible longer to conceal the natural advantages for manufacturing and mining which exist in Kentucky. There is not a State in New England better suited for widely diversified industries. Yet Kentuckians, for the last fifty years, have been willing to have the greater share of their money go into the coffers of New England manufacturers, who have secured their wealth mainly at the expense of other States. An indication of a change that is in progress, is the showing, by the Baltimore Manufacturers' Record, of the development of the Southern States there were reported 1,865 new enterprises, representing $102,000,000. Kentucky heads the list with new enterprises representing $51,762,000. Compared with the census of 1880, placing the total amount of capital invested in manufacturing in this State at only $45,000,000, it will be seen that an important increase was made during the past year.—Louisville Commercial.

Mr. Carlisle owes his prominence in the House to the infinite pains with which he prepared himself for his speeches, especially that on the refunding bill four years ago, which put him in the front rank, and that on the tariff. This preparation, however, went no further than an exhaustive study of the original data. He accepted no man's figures, but prepared his own from the official statistics. For weeks and weeks he spent every night at his desk computing, comparing, figuring, and making his own deductions. He never gave a thought to his diet, his gestures, or to any of the arts of rhetoric.

It will be a day of triumph for honesty and decency when all the nations of the earth refuse to harbor fugitive criminals. The fact that it is possible for a man to commit a crime in one country and then find protection against the authorities of that country by fleeing to another, takes from the criminal classes much of the fear they otherwise would have. So long as there is a unity of definition of crime in the different countries there ought to be no objection to concert of action against criminals.—Elizabethan News.

Poor Mr. Tilden, trembling with palsy and ready for the grave, has suddenly become a tower of strength for the Democracy—their cloud by day, and their pillar of fire by night. With a touch from his feeble fingers a dozen Cabinet pyramids are overthrown. His dying whisper, breathed into the ear of the President-elect, changes the whole policy of the incoming administration. No important move is made upon the political chess-board without his advice, and yet four years ago he was sent to the rear by his party with characteristic ingratitude. Mr. Tilden is too old a politician not to improve this opportunity. The cards are coming his way at last, and he has a great many scores to settle.—Louisville Commercial.

"There is a neglect of that discipline and instruction necessary to keep children in moral courses. It may be that colored parents have omitted proper strictness with their own children through some misconception of freedom. They, like many white people, have got the notion that the children will get the proper training in getting an education at the public cost."

"There was never a grosser error, in so far as parents have felt themselves relieved from the duty of training up and disciplining their children by reason of systems of public education, these systems have been anything but a blessing. * * * Parental neglect is the fruitful source of crime."

Two of the most entertaining speakers of the Senate are Logan and Ingalls, and for precisely opposite reasons. Logan is fierce, often when there seems to be no call for ferocity. Ingalls is cold as an icicle. Logan easily works up to white heat. No one ever saw Ingalls when he seemed to have an emotion. Logan wanders in his enthusiasm all over the fields of rhetoric, and sometimes gets mired in the swamps. Ingalls is always classically correct. Logan is effective when delivering sledge-hammer blows, and absurd when he essays sarcasm. Ingalls never attempts to wield the sledge hammer, but his sarcasm cuts as keenly, quickly and as deeply as a Japanese harikari knife. Ingalls stands like a statue, like the zero point personified; Logan dances and prances over the chamber like a hot-blooded savage at a war-dance. Both of these men, however, are effective speakers, and command the attention of the Senate and the galleries.—New York Sun.

"I traveled from the Potomac to New Orleans, stopping at the capitals of the States, where political ambition is always of most luxurious growth, and never heard partisan politics discussed or partisan interests suggested; and returning through the iron and coal fields of the South to Tennessee, the most convulsive of the Southern States in politics, it was the young business men who spoke words of hearty welcome and taught the lessons of Southern advancement. And among the young men I met and saw many with heads silvered and eyes dimmed by age, who gave the wise counsel and the conservative co-operation of experience to the men who are about to re-create the South. As a humble co-laborer in that great consummation, I met only the flowers and fragrance of peace and progress and welcome overhanging the scarred walls of civil strife, and the journey will be one of the most grateful memories of the evening of a busy life."

Had it not been for Washington, Marion and "Light-horse Harry" Lee, the South, the independence of our country would not have been gained. Geo. Washington, in letters to friends, spoke of the Massachusetts people who thought more of getting money and office than of fighting. He called these speculators by the name of "Forestallers."

He, Washington, was harassed by Northern members of Congress and by Northern Generals. Look at the "Conway Cabal" and the treason of Benedict Arnold, of Connecticut! And when the Revolution did end successfully for the Colonies, some of these Northern officers actually proposed having a "King," and made overtures to Washington to induce him to accept the crown!

All the traitors to this country, from Arnold to Hull, have been of Northern birth. Traitors in the Revolution, traitors in 1812 (with "Blue Light Signals") to the British, and a "Hartford Convention" of New England "Secessionists," traitors in the Mexican War, called Whigs, who hoped to God that the Mexicans would "welcome our soldiers with bloody hands to inhospitable graves." Federalists, Whigs, Know-nothings, Republicans have always been a lie to their names. They have never been what their names would seem to imply.

The Federalists, and, lastly, the Republicans, strove to subvert the genuine principles of a Federal Republic. The Democrats have always contended for the rights of the people and of the independent, sovereign States comprising our Union under a compact. Vattel is good authority for our form of Government. He says: "Several sovereign and independent States may unite themselves together by a perpetual confederacy, without ceasing to be each individually, a perfect State."

The Puritan-Federal-Whig-Know-nothing Abolition Republican party, a very patriotic-for-power-and-pelf! This so-called Republican party burnt the Constitution, cursed the Union and called the flag a "lie." But, when our late war came up, being somewhat dubious of the qualities of Southern lead, they called the truly patriotic Democrats to do battle for the Union, Constitution and flag, while they staid at home, principally, to take fat contracts, swindle the Government, buy up legislation for monopolies, found National Banks—and make "treason odious," generally! Yes, the facts of the case are, and the figures show, a majority of the soldiers of the Union Armies were Democrats. It could not be otherwise, when the largest enlistments were from Southern, South-western and Western States. The "blue-bellied Yankee" did not amount to a "hill of beans" with the Confederates. Yes, boys, "you uns" whipped "we uns"!

Now, you Democrats who whipped us Democrats, read this loving Republican "Ode to the American Flag!"

"Tear down the flagging lie!
Tear down the American Flag!
Tear down the flagging lie!
Tear down the American Flag!
Tear down the flagging lie!
Tear down the American Flag!"

Now, didn't "these people"—the party to which "Schoolboy" belongs, love the "Stars and Stripes"—before the War?

Well, yes! I was a member of the 13th Regiment Kentucky Confederate Cavalry, belonging to Gen. N. B. Forrest's Command. I also got a dose of "Northern lead," but it all failed to make Jeff. Davis my "second God," or Bob. Toombs my "second Savior."

I'm just as good a patriot as "Schoolboy," and the only difference between us is, I understand the nature and form of our Government while he does not, but takes his cue from vile Republican demagogues.

As to the Mexican War, it was brought on by the depredations of the Mexicans and by a dispute between the United States and Mexico over the Texas boundary line. All of "Schoolboy's" twaddle about it, to the contrary, is bosh, and is borrowed from the insane ravings of old lying Whigs and Puritanic, fanatic Abolitionists!

Civil and religious liberty was established in Maryland, in 1683, by Catholic and Cavalier stock. Thus, Jefferson was opposed to slavery, and Geo. Washington, by will, manumitted his slaves, and Henry Clay was an Emancipationist. So you see, my dear "Schoolboy," the Cavalier "democrats" liberty." Bancroft maintains that the idea which formed the basis of the Constitution originated with Mr. Jefferson. It is certain, though he was not in the Convention, that his writings first eliminated our Federal System.

Although Madison penned the Virginia Resolutions of 1799, they were essentially Mr. Jefferson's Kentucky Resolutions of 1798. These resolutions properly defined the powers of the General Government, and declared the Sovereignty of the States. The Republicans overthrew State Sovereignty, cheated their soldiers in pay, made high tariff for the rich man, stole the Presidency once, and, of course, we Democrats are a bad lot, entirely responsible (?) for it all!

W. H. CUNDIFF.
SUGGS' TALK.
ROCKPORT KY, Feb. 16th, 1885.

Many of my friends have flattered me with friendly expressions towards "SUGGS" contributions to the HERALD, for all of which I am most grateful. It is no small reward to thus be endorsed by friends, and I only wish that my surroundings permitted more carefully written and newsy letters, but I haven't time for such a thing, and I am writing-up.

I am also glad to see our county paper rapidly growing in popular favor, and becoming an absolute necessity, which none can afford to do without, and in which we all must have a county pride.

Mr. Byron Tichenor's little daughter is dangerously ill, also Mr. Willie R. Robertson, but under Dr. Layton's skillful treatment we hope soon to hear of their entire recovery.

Mr. Wise is having a great deal of trouble with his steam boiler, on account of which the mill has been stopped for several days.

Married, at the residence of the bride's father, Mr. John Bell, on the 11th inst., by Rev. Ellis Maddox, Mr. J. B. Maddox to Miss Varina Bell. "Marriages, and hangings, go by destiny." It lies not in our power to love or hate, for will in it is overruled by fate. "May the turtles' love and Nest never be their's, and may Erik never be their's."

The wheat reports are discouraging in the extreme, but I hope not so bad as believed by most of the farmers.

Mr. Noel Tichenor died on the 11th inst. To the wife of Charles Igleheart on the 9th inst., a daughter, Dr. Maddox attending.

Born to the wife of Henry Woodburn on the 12th inst., another little Woodburn, a daughter.

Born to the wife of P. S. Brown, a boy or girl I don't know, and to the wife of John C. Chinn on the 12th inst., a bouncing 9 pound girl.

You have probably noticed that my letters have lately been obnoxious all sorts of business. The reason is plain: the beast hibernated this winter and never breathed the least sign till about ground-hog-day, but those signs are still increasing. The Lord send more signs.

Only two of Mr. A. T. Brown's family have taken the measles so far.

Mr. G. W. Loney is quite sick.

The most diabolically atrocious deed ever perpetrated in this county was committed here Saturday definitely in broad open day. It makes my flesh creep and hair bristle and I am sick at heart, and nothing but my severe sense of duty could induce me to report it—ah, my heart fails me—yet I—how can I, when I can't—but—Oh, it was the inhuman—pshaw! language falls me—Fernald—a horrible valentine, and sent to me too—bah!

THE MINUTES OUT OF ORDER.
CENTERTOWN, Feb. 13, 1885.

It is with regret that I read in this week's issue of the HERALD that the proceedings of the Temperance meeting were so badly out of order. I thought I had explained to your local editor, with sufficient clearness, as to how the proceedings were to be arranged. As they were in several parts, each part unattended in its order, and being in a considerable hurry I did not copy the resolutions that had been adopted by the other meetings. Mr. Editor, I do not mean to make the lead and tail so much alike that you could not tell them apart, but I think that you might have grabbed an ear.

I had not heard of any one accusing you or the HERALD of being an enemy to temperance, by even a short jump, and think it would have been proper to have waited until accused by someone.

The proceedings were numbered and hurriedly explained, still that did not give them proper shape. It was not our place to revise them. We might have grabbed an ear, fourth, we never thought of that,—for the ears are very prominent.

"Your letter received. In reply I am happy to say that Parker's Hair Balsam did much more for me than you said it would, or than I expected. My hair has not only stopped falling out, but the bald spots are all covered, and all my hair has grown thicker, softer and more lively than it was before my sickness a year ago. Thank you again and again." Extract from letters of Mr. R. W. T., West Fifty-third street, New York.

Editor Herald:
Alvin Rowe has embarked in the saw log business.

Will Rowe looks like a fish out of water since he shut up shop.

Sam Rowe has an ugly carbuncle, on account of which he has been laid up several days, but is better now.

Jasper He can furnish an open-top wagon has been a serious wound on his head with an axe caused by slipping on the ice.

Notwithstanding the abundant crop of ice this winter, not a single ice-house is to be found in this entire community.

Considering the severity of the weather and the fearful condition of the roads, a respectable number of people come to town and business with our merchants is reasonably good.

The little mill is kept busy on grinding days, which are Tuesdays and Wednesdays in each week.

Our sugar-making friends have had one or two good runs. There are four camps in sight of each other, besides some who make sugar on a small scale.

So far I have heard of no tobacco seed being sown nor oats being put in the ground. I suppose it is getting there are several crops of unsold to

V. B. and T. M. Morton drove thirty-two head of nice, fat cattle through this place a week or ten days ago, which they had sold to some parties for shipment to Louisville. The lot averaged 850 pounds, and they got $4.10 per hundred pounds for them. Marion Calvert sold ten head to other parties, but I never learned what he got for his Marion is a lucky fellow with cattle though.

Taylor Rowe and his son-in-law, Ira Fulkerson, bought two good young mules from Warren Landley, paying one hundred and ninety-five dollars for the two.

George T. Tinsley bought a fine mule from Uncle George and J. W. Rowe, for which he paid one hundred and ten dollars.

Daniel T. Ashby is building a neat residence near his mother's, and rumor has it that he won't get it finished until he will have caught his bird. Success, Daniel; here's luck to you.

Rev. Mr. Weaver, failing to fill his appointment here on Friday night before last, second Sunday, preached last Monday night. Bro. Not being satisfied with his effort on that occasion, he proposes to give it another trial at his next appointment here.

The bridal party, J. B. Maddox and wife, with Rev. Ellis Maddox and Miss Ellen Tichenor, and L. P. Loney and Miss Effie Tichenor as bridesmaids and groomsmen, passed through this town Wednesday evening en route to the groom's father, Rev. J. K. Maddox, where an elegant reception awaited them.

Mrs. J. T. Hines is visiting at her father's, also Hines' Mill, this week.

Alfred Brown, nephew of S. T. Brown, made a short call here one day last week.

Mrs. Robert Brown and daughter, Corilla, of near Rockport, spent several days in the Walton's creek neighborhood among relatives last week.

Andy Williams and Cornelius Renier are busying on the farm recently bought by Andy. They are making preparations for farming.

The HERALD's drawing gave pretty general satisfaction in this part of the county, though we were not among the lucky.

Press Goff has built another room to his house and otherwise so improved it that when finished he will have a very respectable dwelling.

The outlook for saw log men is, to say the least, not very flattering. Ere long they'll begin to wish for more water. Just yesterday the floods were at their height and doing their level best at destruction. While we wish the log men good luck, we fondly hope to have no more such floods.

Though there has been a large number of cases of measles in the Point and between here and the Point, it is, fortunately, of a very mild form. S.

THE TEMPERANCE QUESTION.
Editor Herald:

At a meeting in the Court-house in Hartford, on the 7th of February, 1885, the voice of some of the voters of the Hartford voting precinct was heard denouncing the action of the Trustees of Hartford for granting licenses to anybody to sell spirituous liquors.

Now what is all this for. The law-making powers have said that when the people petition the County Judge to submit to the voters of a certain place or district whether or not they are in favor of or against the selling of whisky, if a majority are opposed, then it is understood that there shall be no more whisky sold in said locality—this understanding coming from what is called L. and Option law.

Well, this question was submitted to the voters of Hartford voting district last August, resulting in a large majority against whisky. But the voters, not being satisfied with the voice of the people at the polls, applied to the County Judge for license to sell liquor, who indignantly says he cannot nor will grant license, when such a majority is opposed to it.

Now in Hartford there are, I suppose, three lawyers to every 100 persons. By some turn or somebody, they claim that they have a special act giving the Trustees the right to grant licenses to persons to sell liquor. Some of these persons have said they got hard-up for money and they could increase their town fund by granting licenses at the rate of $500 a year for every license.

Well, it is a good thing to have if rightly used.

Now, I had not heard of any one accusing you or the HERALD of being an enemy to temperance, by even a short jump, and think it would have been proper to have waited until accused by someone.

The proceedings were numbered and hurriedly explained, still that did not give them proper shape. It was not our place to revise them. We might have grabbed an ear, fourth, we never thought of that,—for the ears are very prominent.

Better than She Expected.
"Your letter received. In reply I am happy to say that Parker's Hair Balsam did much more for me than you said it would, or than I expected. My hair has not only stopped falling out, but the bald spots are all covered, and all my hair has grown thicker, softer and more lively than it was before my sickness a year ago. Thank you again and again." Extract from letters of Mr. R. W. T., West Fifty-third street, New York.

How is this money raised, by simply strutting Mr. A. and N. themselves to sell whisky to the citizens of Hartford? No, sir; they will sell it to every man or boy in the county, or out of it, who will come there and call for it, and pay for it. Everybody knows that as a general rule the ones who drink the most are those who need every cent they could save to support themselves and families, and if the devil had no h—ll traps in Hartford these persons would go home with their money in their pockets or something equivalent to make wife and children happy, but these expert trappers stand with the scent of their bait, ready to breathe in the face of those who cannot withstand the temptation, and thereby cause the thirst to arouse, and they are turned into this devil's trap to take just one drink. But, ah! this is not enough; another and another, and presently the victim is reeling and at last he is down and then he is taken to jail. Now the expense commences, and if this $500 was used to pay such bills and others of like character, there never would be a license granted by the Trustees, or if this $500 or $1,000 was divided out equally with the district the Trustees would say that they respected the voice of the majority of the voters of this district and would not grant licenses to any person, even if they had the legal right to do so.

Perhaps at this time all can see that the people who voted for Local Option have a right to feel indignant and want a test of this case. I, for one, voted for Local Option, and I thought I had a right to do so, but I have been said by one of the 3 to the 100, that Local Option is a fraud. If so who deceived the people? We do not wish to injure Hartford, but we desire to see the town improve and prosper and become a place known for its sobriety, uprightness, generosity and intelligence; also a place where parents can send their children to school without having fear of their being caught in any trap of vice of any kind, and not surprised by any place for procuring an education.

Now let us who have voted for Local Option, see that we have it, and if our Legislature has given the Trustees a license to sell such that each Act is repealed at the first opportunity. We said you must not sell whisky and we meant it, and we intend to make the way of the transgressor hard or it is already that way, but we are going to see him walk right over the hard places. So one who wishes you to see yourselves as you are seen, would be glad you should stop and consider. The main falls.

A PHANTOM.

One evening when the cloudless sky
Of summer cast its depth of blue,
I strayed far from the busy town
And wandered through the pearly dew.
While strolling round upon the green
In seeking freshness of the air,
I espied before me on the lawn,
A maiden young and small and fair.
I asked her name—when whence she hailed
And gently touched her pearly hair.
In sweet soft voice she sweetly said:
"I am the Queen of Fairyland."

Her face was like the blushing rose.
Her eyes were like the diamonds bright,
But while I gazed, this lovely fay
Arose and vanished from my sight.
Since that sweet hour I've searched the woods—
The fields, the flowers, old oaks' strand,
But ne'er have heard nor seen her
The beautiful Queen of Fairyland.

And thus it is in youth's gay morn,
While gliding down life's mystic stream,
We rush to grasp the shining pearl,
But wake to find it all a dream.

PERSONALS.

Mrs. F. M. Joplin, of Elizabethtown, is visiting relatives here.

The Hon. H. D. McHenry and Capt. Sam E. Hill, leave to-day for Washington.

Mr. Z. Wayne Griffin's condition is but little improved. He is still confined to his room.

Mrs. John Steele returned from Evansville, last week, where she had been to visit the bedside of her sick brother.

Mr. T. L. Jones has visited the town of McHenry, Hamilton and Beaver Dam, in the interest of his library at this place.

P. L. Brizendine, representing Heidelberg, Friedlander & Co., wholesale clothiers, Cincinnati, was in town a day or two last week selling "clodgers."

Mr. Jones requests us to say that the library will be ready for subscribers Saturday afternoon. Subscribers and the public generally are invited to call.

Messrs. Elzevier and Clint Hedden, of Fordville, called to see us last Monday. Clint drew a Wilson Sewing Machine at the HERALD's gift distribution, which he took home with him.

Mr. H. M. Saunders, representing Richey's patent medicines and the American Home, Princeton, Ky., has been in our midst for several days. Mr. S. has had considerable success in both the sale of the medicines and paper. We had frequent calls from Mr. Saunders while here and found him to be quite a pleasant gentleman. He has written a sketch of the history of Hartford which will appear in the Home.

Another blizzard Sunday.

The ground-hog theory still holds true.

The present cold snap has retarded spring work on the farm.

Weekly entertainments in the form of candy-pullings, for the benefit of the Baptist church, have been going the round in town for some time past. The last of these delightful meetings occurred at the residence of Judge W. F. Gregory, Friday night, at which a large number of the girls and boys of town were present to enjoy the fun and contribute to the treasury. The occasion was a feast of sweetness and a flow of soul.

Washington is fast growing, in the esteem of tourists, to be one of the most beautiful capitals of the world, and the drift of literary and fashionable people towards it, as a winter resort, is giving it a new social importance aside from its political interest. In line with the new development is the growth of a domestic architecture that gives it much of its external character. An interesting paper, giving "A Glimpse of Some Washington Homes" in their exterior and interior architecture, has been prepared for HARPER'S MAGAZINE by Mr. E. W. Lightner, and will appear in the March issue. Among the homes illustrated will be those of Senator Pendleton, Justice Stanley Matthews, W. L. Payne, and other notables.

DR. J. BRADFIELD: Dear Sir—We have for the past fifteen years handled your Remedies, both at wholesale and retail, and in no instance, so far as our knowledge extends, have they failed to give satisfaction. We have sold more of your Remedies than of all the other similar remedies combined. We regard Pryor's Pile Ointment one of the best and Pryor's Friend one of the truest to its distinctive title, "The Mother's Best Friend." Yours truly,

The next candy-pulling for the benefit of the Baptist church will be held at Mrs. A. P. Hudson's next Friday night. All are invited to attend.

Every new subscriber to the HERALD will receive a copy of the American Home, published at Princeton, Ky., by Rev. T. E. Richey, for one year free.

Our devil has invented a patent folding stool which can be used for setting type or converted into a chair, or it can be used as a step-ladder. He will apply for a patent in the near future.

Rev. James F. McDonald, of the C. P. church, will preach at the M. E. church next Saturday night and on Sunday at 11 o'clock A. M., and Rev. P. A. Edwards, of the M. E. church, will preach Sunday night.

J. B. Hocker, of Sutton, will deliver to the people of the Cromwell school district, on the last Saturday night (the 28th) in February, a lecture on Education. The pupils and patrons of that district are especially invited to attend.

We noticed a spot of dry ground about the size of a bed-blanket in the street the other day, and fifteen boys, seven white and eight colored, playing "keeps." Equality hath no bound with the small boy when it comes to playing "keeps."

Mr. L. C. Woodward bought four Cotswold ewes of Hornsby & Bro., of Eminence, Ky., recently. We are glad to note the improvement of all kinds of stock in Ohio county.

Last Saturday was St. Valentine's day, and the post-office was thronged with expectant boys and girls, and they were not disappointed, for they came in all shapes, sizes, manners and forms, from a fine love valentine down to a 5-cent comic one.

Rev. P. A. Edwards filled his usual appointments at the M. E. church at this place, last Sunday and Sunday night. We regret that the inclemency of the weather prevented larger audiences at these meetings, as the sermons were interesting, instructive and full of knowledge.

On Thursday the 13th inst., at Bowling Green, Mr. Alfred Hurt, formerly of this place, accidentally cut the finger of his left hand entirely off with a buzz-saw and also cut the thumb of the same hand severely. We regret to hear this, as Alfred is an industrious fellow and makes his living by shoving the plane.

Ford writes that circumstances over which he had no control has compelled him to suspend travel for a few weeks. Clint's life seems to be dotted with discomfort. He certainly has our sympathy.—Leitchfield Sunbeam.

Is there no sympathy for poor Mrs. Ford? Isn't her jealousy natural and not to be blamed, when her husband is so outrageously faithless and rakish?

Mr. H. B. Kinsolving, County Attorney, was called to Buford Saturday to prosecute two cases of the Commonwealth against Thos. Patton, one for committing a breach of the peace by using abusive language to C. H. Lee, and the other for carrying concealed a deadly weapon. In the former case he was fined ten dollars, and in the latter the jury disagreed. The defendant, who was under bond in both cases, appeared and remained until after the trial of the first case, when he left, forfeiting both bonds.

Some months ago a party of girl artists found picturesque sketches of ground among the granite quarries of Cape Ann, Massachusetts, and they made a number of drawings which will appear in the forthcoming March HARPER'S. Miss Ellen Day Hale, the daughter of Edward Everett Hale, herself well known as a rising artist, was one of the number, but instead of contributing sketches she has written the paper on the granite industry which the pictures illustrate, giving in a chatty way an interesting account of stone-cutting in general and these quarries in particular. One of the most curious facts she brings out is the idiosyncrasy of various cities in the matter of pavements, Philadelphia in particular "insisting upon having especially long and fair stones." The article and its pictures form an interesting example of feminine co-operation.

Downright Cruelty.

To permit yourself and family to "suffer" with sickness when it can be prevented and cured so easily with Hop Bitters!!!

Having experienced a great deal of "trouble" from indigestion, so much so that I came near losing my life!

My trouble always came after eating my food.

The Hartford HERALD of Wednesday contained the following: "A young lady in the game called the 'candy' family, or do as I do," at the Baptist camp pulling last week, surprised and uncomplained the rest of the players, especially the other ladies present, by turning a hand-spring. Rather acrobatic girls down there.—Leitchfield Sunbeam.

You ought to call and see the low prices and big bargains in clothing and dress goods at Anderson's Bazaar before their stocks are exhausted.

We this week give the remainder of the list of delinquent tax-payers for Ohio county for the year 1884. We propose to follow soon with a list of the dead-beat delinquent, dishonest subscribers to the HERALD, who have procured it as long as they could on a credit and then refuse to pay for it. They are infinitely meaner and more dishonorable than a delinquent taxpayer, and we want the public to have the benefit of the list. We will give name, postoffice address, amount due and let it stand till all can see and learn who the dead-beats are.

How infinitesimal small is the soul of a man, who will take his local paper as long as he can get it on a credit, and then refuse to pay for it. The soul of such an one would not fill the vacuum in a hollow tobacco seed. We have several such in this part of the world which we propose to give to the public soon.

Dentistry.

Dr. W. B. Arnold, the Owensboro dentist, will be at the Hartford House, February 25, 1885, and will remain but eight days. Those wanting work will please call early as he cannot remain longer.

Attention, Farmers!

We are still the agent for Homestead Fertilizers, and expect to sell five times more the coming season than ever before. Good many farmers tried cheaper fertilizers last spring, but they say they are done with them, and must acknowledge Homestead Tobacco and Corn Grower to be the best and cheapest. We have yet to find the farmer, who has used Homestead on his crops, but what was delighted at the results and said he would use more the next season. It is a fact that Homestead Tobacco Grower pays, and pays big. Farmers expecting to use it this season would oblige us very much by giving us the number of barrels they will probably want, that we may know how much to order. Let us hear from you in person or through the mails.

Yours &c.,

College Notes.

Mr. A. W. Davidson, Cromwell, visited the College one day last week. Mr. Davidson manifests a great interest in our college, as he has a son attending the same.

The usual time for examination rolled around last Friday. The different classes were examined in regular order to the satisfaction of both teachers and pupils.

Mr. L. H. Leach, of Cromwell, and D. B. Felix, of Horton, students of the College, visited their respective homes last Friday.

Prof. Buchanan filled his regular appointment at Rockport, last Saturday and Sunday, returning Sunday evening.

A new class in geometry was formed last Monday in Prof. Henry's department. This class will no doubt be an interesting one, as it is composed of a number of young ladies and gentlemen.

The music department in charge of Miss Buchanan, is increasing in interest each week.

The advanced class in Chemistry, under the supervision of Prof. Buchanan, will complete the work this week. A class in Logic will be immediately formed.

The pupils in the Intermediate department, of which Miss Sue Crow is teacher, are progressing rapidly. Several classes are now ready to enter the Collegiate department.

The Intermediate and Primary Departments favor us every two weeks with exercises, such as dialogues, essays, declamations and recitations. These exercises are very interesting as well as beneficial.

The Anatomy class reciting to Mrs. Harper, our Primary teacher, is composed of young ladies only. She reports rapid progress.

MARRIAGES.

MADDOX-BELL.—At the residence of the bride's father, John D. Bell, near Point Pleasant, Wednesday, Feb. 11th, 1885, by Rev. E. H. Maddox, Mr. J. B. Maddox and Miss Varina Bell. Attendants, Mr. L. P. Loney and Miss Edie Tichenor and Mr. Ellis J. Maddox and Miss Meacie Tichenor. The bride party left immediately for the residence of the groom's father, Rev. D. J. K. Maddox, near Rockport, where a splendid reception was tendered them. The happy couple have our best wishes for their future welfare.

DIED.

ALLEN.—An infant of Andrew Allen, living in the vicinity of McHenry, Sunday morning February 15th, 1885.

TICHENOR.—At his home near Point Pleasant, Wednesday night, Feb. 11, 1885, S. Noel Tichenor, of pneumonia. Mr. Tichenor was an honest, upright citizen, and his untimely death has left an aching void in the hearts of his family, relatives, friends and neighbors. The family have our warmest sympathy.

COPPAGE.—At her home four miles east of Hartford, Wednesday, February 11th, 1885, after a long, lingering illness of lung fever, Mrs. James R. Coppage. She leaves a husband and several children. Her remains were interred in the graveyard on the farm of Geo. A. Brown. The husband and children have our sympathy.

A Call.

The time is not far in the future for nominating a Democratic candidate to represent Ohio county in the next Legislature. In selecting a man for the people's confidence, and such a man is Jesse S. Williams. If elected, he would work for the benefit of his county and State, and not for selfish individuals. He has integrity, economy and energy, and if nominated would win the fight in August beyond all doubt. Let us rally for Mr. Williams.

MILTON.

We, the undersigned voters of the Cool Spring precinct, do earnestly solicit Mr. J. S. Williams to make the race for the office of Representative for Ohio county in the coming Legislature, and pledge him our cordial support:

And others.

An Inquiry.

Editor Herald.

There are several gentlemen in Ohio county who are taking subscriptions for a so-called History of Kentucky. As many of our people are subscribing for this work I write this communication to request you to give our people some information as to this alleged History.

Do you know who is the author of this work?

Do you know anything as to its value—can you vouch for the reality of the enterprise?

One feature of it seems not to be so commendable. Any citizen, however obscure he may be, who will agree to pay twelve dollars and fifty cents for this History, has his biography immediately written under the mistaken belief that he is a distinguished citizen. Is there not some fraud in this? In a word, Mr. Editor, what I want to know is this, will you say to the people that this enterprise is a fair transaction, and that there is nothing about it but what is regular and proper?

The county is in a fair way to pay probably thousands of dollars to these men and I want to know who they are.

Prohibition.

A Prohibition State Convention will be held in Louisville on the 19th day of March. The Executive Committee say among other things in their call, that they are now recognized as a controlling element in national politics, and that in this time of crisis they are to take an important position in shaping the administration of affairs, both State and national. They earnestly request that every citizen in the Commonwealth be represented in the convention. Let there be, they urge, such a representation of the people of Kentucky as will indicate a purpose to succeed. Half fare for the round trip, to cover five days, has been secured from all the railroads going into Louisville.

A Good Offer.

We will send the HERALD and the American Home for one year to every new subscriber for $1.50. The American Home is a monthly paper published at Princeton, Ky., by Rev. T. E. Richey, and is devoted to temperance, religion and general news. Subscribe and receive both papers for the price of the HERALD.

Ohio County, Kentucky.

Hartford is the county seat of Ohio County. It is situated on Rough river, 18 miles from its junction with Green river, 5 miles from the Chesapeake, Ohio & Southwestern railroad. The county is about 40 miles square, contains 5,000 voting population, and has no government or railroad land. Some 24 miles of rough river through the county. Farming lands are worth from $5 to $25 per acre, according to improvements. The soil is adapted to corn, wheat, oats, tobacco and all kinds of cereals and fruits of most all kinds. Large bodies of fine timber, inexhaustible coal deposits, iron ore and stone are to be found, and invite development. No bonds are outstanding against the county, and none are likely to be issued soon. A survey by the government is being made of Rough river preparatory to building locks and dams, that will make this county a good point for manufactures.—T. J. SMITH, in the Chicago Western World.

English Berkshires.

Mr. John P. Foster, living near town, shipped to Mr. I. W. Hyde, Triune, Tennessee, last Thursday, a young, three months old, for which he received $30. Lady's Queen, imported by Royal Saxon and out of Lady Oxford Sterling. Mr. Foster is a farmer and a first-class stock-grower.

Valuable to Teachers.

The proceedings of the last meeting of the State Teachers' Association will be issued in a few days. The volume if read will be found of greatest interest to all; no teacher can afford to be without it. Already 1,000 out of the 2,000 ordered to be printed have been called for; early orders may cause an issue of 3,000. One copy costs 15 cents and postage 3 cents, may pay in stamps; 6 copies $1.25; 12 copies $2.00; 24 copies $3.55. President Allen, of Farmdale, edits and publishes the book, as authorized by the Association to do. He has attempted to give a full account of all which occurred, and three intelligent members have pronounced it astonishingly correct. It contains also the addresses of Beckner, Goodnight and Thompson, any one of which is worth the money charged for the whole book. The money made belongs to the S. T. A. You may communicate with the Vice-President of your Congressional District or with the President. Begin immediately to make up clubs. Send in your orders immediately.

Then And Now.

Admiral Porter's historical sketch might have been more accurate if written in sight of the "granite cliffs" and while the events were fresh in his mind. And so might Gen. Grant's "Shiloh;" but, unfortunately for the "great silent soldier," he delivered to parties now living his impression of the battle the day after the Confederates had retired from the field, April 7, 1862.

"If Gen. Johnston had lived a half hour longer, we should have suffered a terrible defeat. Our soldiers had been driven under the banks of the river for shelter, when Gen. Johnston fell and the command devolved on Beauregard, who ordered that his victorious battalions be withdrawn."

Such is the substance of what Gen. Grant said to a citizen of Savannah, at the time and since his personal friend, the day after the battle, when the facts were fresh in his mind. And yet he so far forgets his own contemporary impressions as to believe that the life or death of the great Confederate Captain, Albert Sidney Johnston, weighed nothing in the balance that decided his fate at Shiloh.

A like veil seems to have been let down over Gen. Beauregard's eyes. Although Gov. Isham G. Harris, the son being two hours long, begged Gen. R. to press the fight to its close, on the first day, he refused to do so. Having, on Tuesday, the 8th, realized his fatal blunder, he telegraphed to Richmond that, on Sunday, "night stopped the pursuit." Our Generals are liable to forget, after so many years, even hours.

Gen. H. V. Boynton, the Washington correspondent of the Cincinnati Commercial Gazette, who was nearer the front than most of the Union officers were on the first day's fight, has always admitted that Gen. Grant's army was badly surprised and, as he holds, through Gen. Sherman's fault. I remember that when our brigade—Gen. Breckinridge's—struck the outer edge of the field we came on a Union soldier, his sleeves rolled to his elbows, lying partially across a skilful of uncooked biscuit. He was dead, shot through the body, and had fallen even in the act of preparing his morning meal. I paused long enough to roll the body off the coals, as we pushed forward, performing this act of charity for the remains of an enemy who had fallen, completely surprised, far in the front.

If Gen. Grant's soldiers on the outpost were that surprised even while engaged—as if no enemy were in a hundred miles—what must have been the astonishment of those far back from Gen. Grant's front nearer the river?

It was Gen. Scott Statham's—not Stratham's—brigade in front of which Gen. Johnston received his fatal wound. It was a Mississippi brigade, Gen. Thos. Colone, Statham, of Grenada, Miss., in temporary command. Gen. Johnston was in the immediate front of the gallant Twenty-second Mississippi regiment when he received the wound of which he died.

But the humbug of those Generals who write their histories twenty years after the fight is all over! This hair on the little thing's head is goat hair, and C. E. is stuffed with sawdust!—C. E. Merrill in the Louisville Courier-Journal.

Just in the Nick of Time.

While Col. John Watkins was plodding his weary way on the road from Laredo to Uvalde, Texas, in company with some friends, they were caught in a thunder shower and thoroughly drenched. Arriving at camp they spread their covering out to dry and Col. Watkins' pocket book having been saturated with water, he emptied it and laid his greenbacks on a blanket to dry. While busily engaged in preparing their packs, very innocently protruded her tongue and took in her throat $755 of Uncle Sam's currency. The Colonel, by mere chance, happening to look that way just as the Jenny was swallowing her valuable ration, ran to her, put his hand in her mouth and down her throat, seized the greenbacks, and to his joy brought them forth intact.—Credible Hesperian.

A nobleman gave a grand supper to a few guests. While they sat at table, two masked personages came into the room. They were not larger than children five or six years of age, and represented a gentleman and lady of high rank. The gentleman wore a scarlet coat with gold buttons. His curly wig was powdered snow-white, and in his hand he held a fine hat. The lady was dressed in yellow silk with silver spangles, and had a neat little hat with plumes on her head, and a fan in her hand. Both danced elegantly, and often made agile springs. Everybody said, "The skill of these children is wonderful."

An old officer who sat at the table, took an apple and threw it between the gay dancers. Suddenly the little lord and lady rushed for the apple, quarreling as if they were mad, tore off their masks and head gear, and, instead of the skillful children, appeared a pair of filthy apes. All at the table laughed loudly, but the old officer sat with much earnestness, "Apes and fools may dress as much as they please, it soon becomes known who they are."

WOMAN!

Her Health and Happiness are Matters of Great Concern to all Mankind.

NEAR MARIETTA, GA.
Some months ago I bought a bottle of Dr. J. C. Wells' Health Renewer, and used it in my family with great satisfaction. I have recommended it to three families, and they have found it to be just what is claimed for it. The females who have used it, are in perfect health and able to attend to their household duties. Rev H B JOHNSON.

WOMAN!

State of Georgia, Troup county.
I, Dr J Bradford, of said county, do hereby certify that the above named medicine, of great merit in the treatment of all diseases of females, which he recommends it. Wm P Bessley, M. D.

WOMAN!

Nearly all our associations are determined by chance or necessity, and restricted within a narrow circle. We cannot know whom we would, and those whom we know we cannot have at our side when we most need them. All the higher circles of human intelligence are to those beneath only momentarily and partially open. We may by good fortune obtain a glimpse of a great poet and hear the sound of his voice, or put a question to a man of science and be answered good-humoredly. We may intrude ten minutes, talk on a Cabinet minister, answered probably with words worth as much as silence, being deceived or snatched once or twice in our lives the privilege of throwing a bouquet in the path of a princess or arresting the kind glance of a queen. And yet these momentary chances we covet, and spend our years and passions and powers in pursuit of little more than these, while meantime there is a society continually open to us of people who will talk to us as long as we like, whatever our rank or occupation—talk to us in the best words they can choose, and with thanks if we listen to them. And this society, because it is so numerous and so gentle, and can be kept waiting round us all day long, not to grant audience, but to gain it—kings and statesmen lingering patiently in those plain-furnished and narrow ante-rooms, our bookcase shelves—we make no account of that company, perhaps never listen to a word they would say all day long.

WOMAN!

Now books of this kind have been written in all ages by their greatest men—by great leaders, great statesmen, and great thinkers. These are all at our choice, and life is short. You have heard as much before, yet have you measured and mapped out this short life and its possibilities? Do you know, if you read this, that you cannot read that—that what you lose to day you cannot gain to morrow? Will you go and gossip with your housemaid or your stable-boy, when you may talk with queens and kings, or flatter yourselves that it is with any worthy consciousness of your own claims to respect that you jostle with the common crowd for entrance here and audience there, when all the while this eternal court is open to you, with its society wide as the world, multitudinous as its days, the chosen and the mighty of every place and time? Into that you may enter always; in that you may take fellowship and rank according to your wish; from that, once entered into it, you can never be ousted by your own fault; by your aristocracy of companionship; your own inherent aristocracy will be assuredly tested, and the motives with which you strive to take high place in the society of the living, measured, as to all the truth and sincerity that are in them, by the place you desire to take in this company of the dead.—JOHN RUSKIN.

WOMAN!

Learn to be good readers—which is perhaps a more difficult thing than you imagine. Learn to be discriminating in your reading; to read faithfully, and with your best attention, all kinds of things which you have a real interest in, a real not an imaginary, and which you find to be really fit for what you are engaged in.—Anonymous.

WOMAN!

As to true friends, choose them with great care, and let their number be small. Have no friend who does not fear God, who is not wholly governed by the truths of religion. To friends like these open your heart without reserve, and keep nothing secret from them but the secrets of others.—FENELON.
